She was thrown into the air, and, descending upon the rail, was completely cut to pieces. One leg was cut off at the knee, being the largest part of the body left. The engineer, Eugene Taylor, perceiving the girl on the track only an instant before she was struck, threw on the air and when he saw that she could not escape turned his head.

HOTEL CLERK MISSING.

Also One Hundred and Seventy-Five Dollars from the Safe.

Some few days ago a smooth young man, hailing from Tacoma, Wash., and giving his name as James Eldridge, registered at the Wayne hotel. Before he had been in the house ten minutes he began to flirt with handsome Ann Harrell, the day clerk. While the stranger poured fourth a tale of woe the ardent James, who was a patient listener, referred the fellow to Will McKinnie, the proprietor, who formed the same opinion that Mr Farrell did, viz., that the young man was a graceful liar and was "working" for a job. Eldridge found it out, and realizing that it might not be congenial for him to remain longer, he wisely departed. It seems that he had better success at Kokomo, so far as securing a position is concerned, but further than that, also to the weakness of mankind. The following special explains it all: "John Eldridge, night clerk at the Clinton hotel, this city, skipped out this morning at 2 o'clock, taking $175 from the safe. He told the bellboy he was going out after lunch, which was the last seen of him. He is twenty-eight years old, medium size, but black mustache and cork eyes. He came from Fort Wayne here ten days ago."

A SAD STORY.

A Once Leader of Society Ends Her Life in a County Poor House.

VALPARAISO, Ind., Nov. 14.—Life had very little sunshine for Elizabeth Blachley. Thirty-seven years ago she was the wife of a prominent physician. Yesterday she died in the county asylum. Today her remains were interred in the potters' field. Mrs. Blachley's early life was full of pathetic interest. When the bloom of innocent girlhood was on her cheeks she became the wife of Miller Blachley, a wealthy physician, who afterward deserted her for the family domestic. The wronged wife became a raving maniac and a small fortune was spent in the vain endeavor to restore her reason, but at last, deserted by her children, she was taken to the poor house, where the woman who in former days was a leader of society and the possessor of unlimited means, became a poor imbecile, passing away at the age of ninety-six years, after spending a greater portion of her life among paupers.

John Boncoutter, the principal, is now on trial, and the evidence showed that Jones furnished the revolver. He went to his home while the quarrel between Boncoutter and Hobbs was in progress, and, on his return, gave Boncoutter the weapon. Boncoutter turned on his assailant and fired the fatal shot from which Hobbs died in a few minutes.

PARIS, Nov. 24.—The important trial of Archbishop of Aix on charges of having insulted and questioned the duty of the minister of public worship M. Faillieres, began today in the court of appeals. There was a great crowd of distinguished people present. The archbishop, contrary to rumor, appeared in the ordinary costume of a bishop of his rank and not in canonical robes.

IN AN INSANE ASYLUM.

Death Comes to Abraham Vogelei, an Old Allen County Resident.

Information reached this city today of the death of Abraham Vogelei, which occurred last night at the state insane asylum. Mr. Vogelei had been in the institution about eight months having been taken there for mental derangement supposed to be only temporary. The deceased was a Pennsylvanian by birth. He settled early in Allen county, where he reared a large family. His age was probably seventy years. The remains will arrive in this city and be taken via the Nickel Plate to Dunkirk station thence to the church and cemetery.

POISON IN THE WELL.

Fifteen Persons Drink Foul Water and Many Deaths Are Likely to Result Therefrom.

FRANKFORT, Ind., Nov. 21. Information was brought to County Superintendent Lyon in this city that one of the public schools in Forest township, in the eastern part of this (Clinton) county, had been closed by the schools sale poisoning of the pupils and also the teacher. An investigation proves that the schools is in fact closed, and that the teacher and fifteen of his pupils are in a critical condition, while two other of the pupils are dead. The school is located in the country, and a few weeks ago the township trustee caused a well to be driven on the premises from which the members of the school got their supply of water. For the past three weeks, the teacher, Joseph Gear, has noticed the attendance growing gradually less, all caused by sickness. One week ago he himself was taken ill, and compelled to close the school. It was found upon investigation that all the pupils who had regularly drank of the water from the well were sick, while a few pupils who lived near the school house and went home for meals were not affected. The symptoms developed are similar to those of typhoid fever. Thursday a child of Robert Dillen, that had been afflicted for several days, grew rapidly worse, and died Friday. Saturday another one of the pupils, a ten-year old daughter of John Bingett, became suddenly worse and died Sunday. Investigation this evening shows that fifteen other pupil and the teacher are all decidedly worse, and several more deaths are expected by the doctors. The doctors say it is a clear case of water poisoning. An incomplete autopsy of the water was made today, which confirms them in their. They say that the water possesses some peculiar chemical property which, in its action on the water pipes, generates the poison. Samples of the water have been secured and will be subjected to a critical analysis in order to unravel the deadly mystery. Later information is to the effect that the teacher is growing rapidly worse. What makes the case the more dangerous is the apparent fact that those who have drank of the water are afflicted with blood poisoning.

Supreme Court Decides that the Law Providing for Them Is Constitutional—Local Court Cases.

The supreme court yesterday, at Indianapolis, handed down a decision in the contested election case of Kumler vs. Black, which went up from Lake county. The parties were candidates for the office of township trustee, and received an equal number of votes. Under the law the election was determined by lot. The supreme court held that this law is constitutional, and that a mandate will lie to compel the election board to decide the matter in this manner. WEDDINGS AND PARTIES.

Hymen Rings Joyous Chimes Today—First Wedding at St. Patrick's —Several Parties.

The first marriage ceremony to take place at the new St Patrick's Catholic church was that which united this morning the contracting parties being Miss Katie Nolan and Eddie Lee, and the officiating clergyman being Rev Father Bellmeyr, pastor of the church. The attendants were Mrs Anna Nolan, sister of the bride, and M. O Brien, a close friend of the groom, and the wedding group formed a very pretty and impressive picture, peculiarly interesting because it was the first to be thus united at Hymen's shrine in new St Patrick's. The words that made them man and wife were said promptly at 9 o'clock, in the presence of friends of both parties shortly after which the wedding party repaired to waiting carriages which conveyed them to the bride's home where breakfast was partaken of. The cold wave struck us again this morning.

The death of Governor Hovey removes a man who might have received the nomination next year for the republican ticket.

CHARLES BROCKHOUSE of Fort Wayne came home but now residing at Indianapolis, says ex-Governor Porter is at Indianapolis looking after his chances for securing the republican nomination for vice-president.

The national republican committee, which met at Washington, selected Minneapolis as the place for holding the next national convention when their candidates for president and vice president will be nominated. The seventh and final ballot resulted Minneapolis, 29, Cincinnati, 15, New York, 4, Total, 47.

Jas. E. Chase, of Danville, Hendricks county, as lieutenant-governor, is now, by Gov. Hovey's death, the chief executive of Indiana. Mr. Chase was elected in 1888 as a republican over Wm. R. Myers, democrat, by a plurality of 2,045. Mr. Chase is a minister of the Christian church, an ex-Union soldier of distinction, and a gentleman of rare accomplishments.

As winter approaches any information that will lessen the plumbing bills is welcome. An English correspondent gives a very simple means of preventing pipes bursting from frost. A cupshaped air-chamber is attached to a piece of pipe which can be coupled at both ends with the pipe to be protected. The air-chamber is separated from the water flowing in the pipes by means of a rubber diaphragm. In case the water in the pipe freezes the expansion of the water, instead of finding an outlet by bursting the pipe, simply causes the diaphragm to yield, thus compressing the air cushion until the cup. It is said that pipes so protected will have immunity from bursting during the severest frost.

GOVERNOR HOVEY'S DEATH.

By the death of Gov. A. P. Hovey, Indiana loses a chief executive whose administration was an honored one, and whose career in life was eventful. He was a brave soldier, a good citizen, a faithful public officer, and every citizen will mourn his death. He was distinctively an Indiana man. Born and raised in the state, her interests were his, and his patriotism toward her never faltered. He believed Indiana to be the best state in the union; he had faith in her loyalty, her resources, her future. Much of his life was spent in the public service, most of it abroad, and through it all he was proud to have it known that his home was in Indiana.

Governor Hovey was a man of strong ability, fearless and honest, genial temperament and loved to be surrounded by his friends, among whom he appeared at his best. The circumstances leading to his final nomination were peculiarly sad and are unnecessary to recall in the public. About three weeks ago Governor Hovey started on a pleasure trip through the west and Mexico. When the trip had been about half completed the governor was taken suddenly ill and had to return home. He and his party arrived at Indianapolis last Wednesday night, since which time he was confined to his bed.

Governor Hovey was born in Posey county, near Mount Vernon, Indiana, in 1821. He served one term in congress and was elected governor in 1886. Governor Hovey was twice married. His first wife died in 1862. His second wife was the daughter of the late Caleb B. Smith, secretary of the interior, under President Lincoln. She died in 1887, two weeks after the marriage of her son, Nick Smith, while en route to Peru, to which country General Hovey had been appointed minister. When the war broke out he enlisted as colonel of the twenty-fourth Indiana, and was commissioned brigadier general for gallantry at Shiloh, and he won his major generalship at Champion Hill. At the close of the war he was military governor of Indiana. Two children survive the governor, one being the wife of Major Meares and the other Harley P. Allen, postmaster at Mount Vernon, Ind.

OUR CONGRESSMEN.

The History of the Fort Wayne Statesmen in Congress from the Organization down to the Present Time.

A contribution to the history of Fort Wayne and Allen county and the congressional district of which they formed no small part, would be somewhat incomplete unless there was an important if not controlling part. The Sentinel today gives in its readable brief sketches in chronological order of the men who have represented the district in congress beginning with the organization of the state government. These sketches based on reliable data and it is hoped be of present interest, and worth preserving for future reference. In their compilation The Sentinel representatives has been greatly aided by data and other information by the Hon. J. E. Edgerton of Decatur, with whom we worked intently many telephones of his extensive library, examined many pamphlets and books, and listened to his personal recollections of many of the men mentioned herein.

The territorial government of Indiana which had existed from its organization under Gen. W. H. Harrison, January 12, 1807, was superseded by the state government on the 7th of November, 1816 and the state was admitted to the Union, by joint resolution of congress on December 11, 1816.

At that time there were thirteen counties in the state, and the intrepid hon hearing Allen county was part of Wayne county. Delaware and Randolph counties were subsequently organized, and from them Allen county, which was named by Gen. John Tipton, the first county organized in honor of Col. John Allen of Kentucky who was killed at the battle of the River Raisen January 22, 1813, was organized in May, 1824.

William Hendricks a native of Pennsylvania, (uncle of Thomas A. Hendricks, and afterwards governor and United States senator) was the first and only representative in congress for the state from 1816 to 1822, when he became governor. He died May 16, 1850.

In the Eighteenth congress, March 4, 1823 to March 1, 1825, Indiana had three representatives viz: First district, William Prince, who died September 4, 1824; Second district, Johnathon Jennings, a native of New Jersey and first governor of the state of Indiana who continued in congress until 1831 and died July 26, 1834. Third district, embracing Allen county, John Test, of Wayne county, also a native of New Jersey, who represented the district from 1823 to 1825 in the Eighteenth and Nineteenth congress and in the Twenty-first congress from 1829 to 1831. He died at Cambridge City, October 9, 1849, and was the father of Charles H. Test, a well known lawyer and judge of Indiana.

For the Twentieth congress Oliver H. Smith, who a native of New Jersey, afterwards United States senator, was a competitor of John Test and was elected by 1,500 majority. He died March 9, 1859. Ex-Judge Wm. H. Coombs, of this city, read law under Senator Smith. John Test was re-elected to the Twenty-first congress, from 1829 to 1831, and was successful in the Twenty-second, Twenty-third and Twenty-fourth congress, 1831 to 1837 by Johnathan McCarty, of Fayette, a native of Tennessee, who was an able lawyer and who afterwards removed to Iowa and died there in 1856. Gen. McCarthy was for a time receiver of public money at Fort Wayne. The late Robert Brackenridge, jr., the late Wm. S. Edsall, and Edward Colerick, all of Fort Wayne, married daughters of General McCarthy, and Mrs. Henry Colerick and Mrs. Willis D. Mayer are his grand daughters.

General McCarthy was succeeded in the twenty-fifth and twenty-sixth congresses—1837 to 1841—by James Rariden of Wayne county, a lawyer and self-educated man of quaint and origin al character, who was born in Kentucky and died at Cambridge City in 1853. The successor of Mr. Rariden was another self-educated man, Andrew Kennedy, who was bred a blacksmith, became a lawyer and state senator and then represented this district in congress from 1841 to 1847. He died at Indianapolis of virulent small pox, December 31, 1847, at the age of thirty-seven years.

William Rockhill, a democrat, of Fort Wayne, another native of New Jersey, and a pioneer citizen of Allen county, was Mr. Kennedy's successor, having been elected to the thirtieth congress—1847 to 1849—over Wm. D. Ewing, his white competitor, also a pioneer citizen of large wealth and influence. Mr. Rockhill was one of the three county commissioners elected at the organization of the county in 1824. He was a state representative and a state senator before his election to congress. He served in congress one term, and died January 7, 1865, an honored citizen and respected by all who knew him. His name is part of the history of Fort Wayne. The late I. D. G. Nelson, Philo Ramsey, of Santa Fe, N. M., and Nelson Wheeler, of this city, married daughters of Mr. Rockhill. An other daughter, Mrs. E. L. Cass Wright W. Hugh, M. C., John B. and Howard C. Rockhill are his children by a second wife.

In the thirty-first congress, 1849-1851, Andrew Jackson Harlan, a lawyer of Muncie a native of Ohio, a democrat represented this district. He had been clerk of the Indiana house of representatives and a member of that house for three sessions. After Delaware county was put into another district, Mr. Harlan was in the Thirty-third congress. He afterwards removed from the state and his later history is lost to view.

In 1851 a political change came over the district and the Hon. Samuel Brenton, of Fort Wayne, a native of Kentucky, a member of the Methodist Episcopal church, was elected to the thirty-second congress, 1851-1853. As a whig, he practiced law from 1841 to 1851, but with this exception was a preacher from his twentieth year to 1848, when an attack of paralysis disabled him. He also served in the thirty-fourth congress, 1855-1857, as a republican. He died March 29, 1857.

Mr. Brenton was the president of the Fort Wayne Methodist college and before he came to this city was a member of the Indiana legislature from 1829 to 1841. M. V. B. Spencer, of the county and the late John C. Petit—Wabash's distinguished jurist and a congressman, married daughters of Mr. Brenton. He was a man of the prejudices, possessed unique, pure character and marked ability and many of the old citizens well remember the vigor of his campaigns for congress, though physically disabled and using a crutch. His ability and personal popularity and his devotion to the M. E. church drew strongly successive against slavery, aided Mr. Brenton to defeat as formidable competitors for congress as the late Judge James W. Borden and Judge Robert Lowry.

In the interval between Mr. Brenton's two terms in congress Thomers M. Chandellaux, of Goshen (a democrat, a native of Maine, a lawyer and a circuit judge), was elected to the thirty-third congress—1853-1855. He served one term and died many years ago. He was an honest man, of good social manners, and a lawyer and judge of ex-cargo ability.

Charles Case, of Fort Wayne succeeded Judge Chandellaux, and was a member of the Thirty-fifth and Thirty-sixth congresses, 1857-61. He was a native of Ohio, had studied law at Adelphi with United States Senator Benj. F. Wade, and been in practice at Bryan, Ohio. He came to Fort Wayne in 1850 and was a law partner for one year of Hon. J. E. Edgerton. Originally a democrat, Mr. Case had embraced the anti-slavery and free soil ideas of the period, Wade, and was elected to congress in 1856 as a republican. He was an able lawyer and an effective political speaker. He entered the army during the war as adjutant of the Forty-fourth Indiana, was afterwards major of the Third cavalry, and then colonel of the 129th Indiana regiment. He resigned his military office and died in 1864. He was a partner in the law practice with W. H. Withers, the late Judge J. L. Worden and with Judge John Morris. After the war he removed to Washington D. C. and died there.

William Mitchell, of Kendallville, was the next member of congress from this, then the tenth, district. He was born in New York and came to Indiana in 1836. He was a member of the Indiana legislature in 1849, and in 1850 was elected to congress as a republican by nearly 3,000 majority over his democratic competitor Mr. Mitchell was not an orator, but a practical business man, successful, and a shrewd politician. He had a strong personal influence in congress and with President Lincoln's administration. He was the founder of Kendallville. He died at Macon, Georgia, in 1865. John Mitchell, a banker of Kendallville, and a well known and highly respected citizen, is his only surviving son.

For the Thirty-eight congress—1863-65—Mr. Mitchell, as the republican candidate for congress, ran against J. E. Edgerton, at this city, the democratic candidate. The canvass was exciting and hotly contested and Mr. Edgerton was elected by 436 majority.

The representatives of the Fort Wayne district in congress since Mr. Edgerton's term have been Joseph H. Defrees, republican, of Goshen, in the Thirty-ninth congress, William Williams, republican, of Warsaw, in the Fortieth and Forty first congress, John C. Shanks, republican, of Portland, in the Forty-second and Forty-third congress; Andrew H. Hamilton, democrat, Fort Wayne, in the Forty-fourth and Forty-fifth congress, Walpole G. Colerick, democrat, of Fort Wayne, in the Forty-sixth and Forty-seventh congress; Robert Lowry, democrat, of Fort Wayne, in the Forty-eight and Forty ninth congress; James B White, republican, of Fort Wayne, in the Fiftieth congress; Charles A. O. McClellan, democrat, of Auburn, in the Fifty-first and Fifty-second congress.

The Sentinel will have something to say in its issue tomorrow about the last named five members from Fort Wayne; J. E. Edgerton, A. H. Hamilton, W. G. Colerick, Robert Lowry and J. B. White. They are Fort Wayne's living ex-congressmen.

Personal—Should this meet the eye of the individual who created a disturbance in church last Sunday by his continued coughing he will confer a favor on the congregation by procuring a bottle of Dr Bull's Cough Syrup, which will cure him.

Bondholders will find Salvation Oil a sure cure for gout or rheumatism. It is sold by all dealers. Price only 25 cents a bottle.

Scientific fever is prevalent at Muncie.

Mr. Henry Richardson, a retired farmer of Ypsilanti, Mich., says: "I have been troubled for several years with rheumatism. I got no relief until I tried Hibbard's Rheumatic Syrup. Six bottles entirely cure me. It has also cured me of liver trouble. For sale by Dreier Bros.

A fine gas well has been struck at Cicero.

INFERIOR GOODS.

The only safe way for purchasers is to insist on having the genuine article, and not allow themselves to be swindled by having plasters said to be "just as good," or "containing superior ingredients," imposed upon them. These are only tricks to sell inferior goods that no more compare with Allcock's Porous Plasters than copper does with gold. One trial of Allcock's Porous Plasters will convince the most skeptical of their merits.

The eminent Henry A. Mott, jr., Ph. D., F. C. S., late government chemist, certifies:

"My own examination of Allcock's Porous Plasters shows it to contain valuable and essential ingredients not found in any other plaster, and I find it superior to and more efficient than any other plaster."

Ask for Allcock's, and let no solicitation or explanation induce you to accept a substitute.

AN AROUSED COMMUNITY

The Continuation Caused by a Most Remarkable Incident, Every Word of Which is Vouched to be True.

(Toledo Blade.)

A few days since we published one of the most wonderful statements that has ever appeared in print. It was made by Miss Bertha Shorr, a young lady of Sidney, Ohio, who has been through an experience probably never before known in history. It was so unusual, so remarkable that a complete investigation of its truth or falsity became an absolute necessity. That investigation has been made and the surprising truths are given in print.

A representative of this paper made a personal call upon some of the leading citizens of the young lady, and also upon seven prominent professional people in Sidney. What they said is simply remarkable.

Dr. J. E. Geyer said: When I was first called to see Miss Shorr I saw at once that her case was a critical one, and I called in consultation several of our best physicians. We were unable to cure her. The pleural sack filled with water and forced the lungs against the heart. Then terrible inflammation set in and the battle for life began and hard but were unable to help her. Nobody thought she would ever recover, but she did. I regard her case as a miracle of lungs and found them to be in a healthy condition."

Mr. C. P. Hickox, a prominent merchant of Sidney, located the author of this article and Popular Secrets stated that he knew the Shorr family well, and that during the time Miss Bertha was sick his office was a frequent caller at their home. He pays: "Bertha was in a most pitiable condition, and her wife presided upon him at one time to go with her and take a look at the suffering girl. I will never forget the sight," he said, as long as I live. I can look on her appearance by saying that she reminded me of the pictures we used to see during the war of starved half-starved soldiers, with that deathly look about the face, and with their long, bony fingers. It is simply wonderful that she ever was taken away from the jaws of death as she was, and I never thought she would recover, but she did."

Rev. A. H. Mumaw, pastor of the Western avenue Lutheran church, said he knew Miss Shorr's family very well, and that they attended his church. He well remembered the terrible suffering that Miss Bertha endured for many months. He could see from consultations and two of the best physicians of the town had told him she was incurable. He considered her recovery little short of a miracle, but she has fully recovered, and is now in blooming health.

Dr. H. E. Beidler said: "Yes, I treated Miss Bertha Shorr for a long time, and her complete recovery is one of the most remarkable things I have seen during my long experience as a physician. She was positively nothing but skin and bone, a mere living form, and we were compelled to carry her in sheets. Her lungs were completely filled, and I was positive that she would die. But she has recovered, and she has told you, and I consider it simply marvelous."

Mr. G. Stolzly, brother-in-law of Miss Shorr, said that his sister-in-law had been confined to her bed for more than eighteen months. "Recovery was the last thing we thought of, and we only sought to make her last hours as pleasant as possible. I have been known any one to be so sick in my sister-in-law and recover. Physicians did not do it, but most careful attention did not do it, but Dr. Ackert's English Remedy for Consumption cured her, and she is now the picture of health. It seems almost too wonderful to believe, and I should not be surprised at anyone disputing it, but it is every word true, and I am willing to confirm it's truth at any time."

Dr. A. W. Beidler said that he was in consultation with Drs. Beebe and Geyer, and that Miss Shorr had consumption beyond the shadow of a doubt. There were cavities in her lungs and abscesses would form and break. He did not see how she could possibly live, but she has fully recovered and is strong and well. "The case baffled us all, and I have many times referred to her case often in consultation with other physicians."

A daughter of the late Senator Robertson said that herself and several girl friends were taking medicine from the hand and hearsed of Miss Shorr's sickness. They went at once to her home and found the family completely worn out from watching and care. They at once sought to assist, never for a moment thinking she could recover. They watched over her, took her delicacies, and when the change for the better took place they also received the first conclusion, she said: "I think it is one of the most wonderful cure ever recorded."

Mr. H. C. Ayers the popular druggist of Sidney, said: "I sold the first bottle of the remedy to the parents of Miss Shorr, and it is simply wonderful how it has done its work. Dr. King's English remedy is wonderfully popular in this town and deservedly so. No such recovery from almost certain death has ever come to my notice. It is almost past belief."

The above are most wonderful statements but they prove the marvelous nature of this case beyond question. They also show how much faith and experience may be in the case of others, perhaps your case, you also may be traveling the same dangerous road, but you also have cured you will but consider and act in time.

"Will they buy?"

Of course they will when they learn that the Standard Sewing Machine is the "Ideal of Perfection." When they see how rapidly and noiselessly it runs, and when they see the variety of work it does; and in after years they have proven its claims, they will crown our Standard with fresh laurels and we will sell a few more in that neighborhood
